To Whom It May Concern,

I am currently treating Blaire Crow, who has been diagnosed with social anxiety and bipolar disorder, including symptoms of bipolar-related depression.

In accordance with the Fair Housing Act and Air Carrier Access Act, I am writing this letter to confirm that Blaire Crow requires an Emotional Support Animal as an essential part of treatment for their mental health.

Based on my professional evaluation and extensive experience treating the patient, I have determined that the presence of an ESA is crucial for their mental health and overall well-being. The animal I have prescribed is a dog named Doug, which will accompany the patient. Here is how the ESA will help the patient:

The presence of the ESA helps in alleviating Blaire's anxiety in social settings and provides a calming presence during episodes of bipolar-related depression. The animal has a significant and positive impact on Blaire's ability to cope with daily stressors and improves their overall mood stability.

The presence of this Emotional Support Animal is necessary for Blaire Crow's mental health and ability to live independently. Denying this accommodation would substantially worsen their condition.

Please feel free to contact me if you require further information or clarification regarding Blaire Crow's need for an Emotional Support Animal.

Sincerely,

Dr. Clara Mandrake
